How do different style guides (e.g., APA, Chicago, MLA) influence the use of dashes in academic writing?

Different style guides like APA, Chicago, and MLA influence the use of dashes by specifying their formatting rules, such as spacing and types of dashes (em dash, en dash, hyphen), which can vary significantly between the guides.

Explain the difference between an em dash and an en dash in terms of their length and usage.

The em dash (—) is about the width of the letter 'm' and is used for emphasis or interruption in a sentence, whereas the en dash (–) is about the width of the letter 'n' and is used to indicate ranges, such as in dates or numbers.

Describe a scenario where using an em dash would be more effective than using commas or parentheses.

For example, in the sentence 'She was determined to win the race—despite the rain and her injury—she pushed through to the finish line,' the em dashes highlight the contrast and urgency of her determination more effectively than commas or parentheses would.
