Describe the role of the Church in the feudal system and its influence on medieval society.

The Church was a powerful entity in the feudal system, owning vast lands and influencing both spiritual and temporal matters. It provided education, social services, and was a unifying force in medieval society.

Discuss the impact of the Black Death on the feudal system and its eventual decline.

The Black Death drastically reduced the population, leading to labor shortages and weakening the manorial system. It contributed to the decline of feudalism by increasing the bargaining power of peasants and promoting urbanization.

How did the manorial system support the economic structure of feudalism?

The manorial system was the economic backbone of feudalism, with self-sufficient estates producing all necessary goods. Serfs worked the land, providing food and resources to sustain the local economy.

Compare and contrast the roles of knights and serfs in the feudal hierarchy.

Knights were warriors who provided military service and protection, often receiving land in return. Serfs were laborers bound to the land, working to produce food and goods for the manor, with limited rights and mobility.

Analyze the reasons for the transition from feudalism to more centralized forms of government in Europe.

The transition was driven by factors such as the rise of trade and towns, the centralization of power by monarchs, and the decline of the manorial system. These changes led to more efficient governance and the formation of nation-states.

Explain how the feudal contract worked between a lord and a vassal.
