

Ap Gov Unit 4 Flashcards PDF

Ap Gov Unit 4 Flashcards PDF

Disclaimer: The ap gov unit 4 flashcards pdf was generated with the help of StudyBlaze AI. Please be aware that AI can make mistakes. Please consult your teacher if you're unsure about your solution or think there might have been a mistake. Or reach out directly to the StudyBlaze team at max@studyblaze.io.

What is the main purpose of the legislative branch of government?

To make laws.

What are the two houses of Congress?

The House of Representatives and the Senate.

What is the term length for a member of the House of Representatives?

Two years.

What is the term length for a U.S. Senator?

Six years.

What is the process by which Congress can override a presidential veto?

By a two-thirds vote in both houses.

What is the role of the President in the legislative process?

To sign or veto legislation.

What is a filibuster?

A tactic used in the Senate to delay or block legislation.

What is the significance of the Supreme Court case Marbury v. Madison?

It established the principle of judicial review.

What is the main function of the executive branch?

To enforce and implement laws.

Who has the power to declare war?

Congress.

What is the purpose of checks and balances?

To prevent any one branch of government from becoming too powerful.

What is the highest court in the United States?

The Supreme Court.

What is the role of the Cabinet?

To advise the President and head the executive departments.

What is the process by which a bill becomes a law?

A bill is introduced, debated, voted on, and then sent to the President for approval.

What is the significance of the Bill of Rights?

It protects individual liberties and rights from government infringement.

What is the main responsibility of the judicial branch?

To interpret the law.

What is the principle of federalism?

The division of power between national and state governments.

What is the role of interest groups in the political process?

To influence policy and decision-making.

What is the purpose of political parties?

To organize elections and promote specific policies.

What is the Electoral College?

A body of electors established by the Constitution to elect the President and Vice President.