

Ap Human Geo Flashcards PDF

Ap Human Geo Flashcards PDF

Disclaimer: The ap human geo flashcards pdf was generated with the help of StudyBlaze AI. Please be aware that AI can make mistakes. Please consult your teacher if you're unsure about your solution or think there might have been a mistake. Or reach out directly to the StudyBlaze team at max@studyblaze.io.

What is the definition of population density?

Population density is the number of people living per unit of area, usually expressed as people per square kilometer or square mile.

What are the main factors that influence population distribution?

The main factors that influence population distribution include physical geography, climate, resources, and human activities such as urbanization.

What is the difference between a push factor and a pull factor in migration?

A push factor is a reason that drives people away from their current location, while a pull factor is an attraction that draws people to a new location.

What is urbanization?

Urbanization is the process by which an increasing percentage of a population comes to live in urban areas, often resulting in the growth of cities.

What is the significance of the demographic transition model?

The demographic transition model illustrates the transition of a country from high birth and death rates to low birth and death rates as it develops economically.

What are the stages of the demographic transition model?

The stages of the demographic transition model are: Stage 1 - High Stationary, Stage 2 - Early Expanding, Stage 3 - Late Expanding, Stage 4 - Low Stationary, and Stage 5 - Declining.

What is a cultural landscape?

A cultural landscape is a geographic area that has been shaped by human activity and reflects the cultural practices and values of a society.

What is the concept of sustainability in human geography?

Sustainability in human geography refers to the ability to meet the needs of the present without compromising the ability of future generations to meet their own needs.

What is the role of globalization in shaping human geography?

Globalization plays a significant role in shaping human geography by increasing interconnectedness and interdependence among countries, cultures, and economies.

What is the difference between folk culture and popular culture?

Folk culture is traditional and often rural, characterized by its homogeneity and preservation of customs, while popular culture is urban, dynamic, and influenced by mass media.