What is a blend in phonics?

A blend is a group of two or three consonants that appear together in a word, where each consonant sound can be heard.

Can you give an example of a blend?

An example of a blend is 'st' in the word 'stop'.

What is the difference between a blend and a digraph?

A blend consists of two or three consonants that are pronounced together but retain their individual sounds, while a digraph is two letters that make one sound, like 'sh' in 'ship'.

List some common blends.

Common blends include 'br', 'cl', 'fl', 'gr', 'pl', 'sl', 'sm', and 'st'.

How do blends help in reading?

Blends help in reading by allowing students to decode words more easily by recognizing the combined sounds of consonants.
